Readership

Every capital purchase decision is made by more than one person & in most cases will have an impact on other areas of airport infrastructure. That is why the readership of AIRPORT CITIES is broad & targeted at senior decision makers. Editorials are framed with this in mind & interaction between departments is catered for in our informative editorial.

Distribution

The carefully controlled distribution is mailed to decision makers across the world - these chief executives, directors, general managers, operations directors & buyers are your customers and potential clients - AIRPORT CITIES will put your company in front of more decision makers worldwide.
